

INDIAN INSTITUTE OF MANAGEMENT CALCUTTA

COMMUNICATION AND PRESENTATION SKILLS

Programme Director:
Prof. Vidyanand Jha

Programme Dates:
February 12 - 16, 2024

Programme Venue:
MDC, IIM Calcutta

INTRODUCTION

Effective oral and written communication skills have frequently been identified as prerequisites to managerial success. Research on recruiter's perceptions about the qualities that they look for in an applicant, have identified oral and written communications skills at the top of their list (Powell & Jankovich, 1998; Moody, Stewart & Boltlee, 2002). This is not surprising considering that managers are frequently required to make presentations both within the organisation and to external groups such as clients, or potential partners. The purpose or intent of these presentations may vary from sharing information to persuading the audience or selling an idea or product. In each case an effective presentation will aid the communicator in performing his/her role.

Moreover in the current environment, individuals increasingly face an information overload and shorter time spans within which they are required to assimilate data and make effective and informed decisions. In such a scenario the ability to communicate is imperative for managerial effectiveness and success. In this context the MDP on Communication and Presentation Skills will highlight some issues that a communicator should consider in order to make effective written and oral presentation.

OBJECTIVES

To help participants to examine their communication styles and to hone their skills in listening, responding, giving and receiving feedback and persuasion. To practice and enhance written and oral communication skills.

PEDAGOGY

The Programme will be highly experiential and interactive, comprising of individual and group exercises, role plays, participant presentations and discussion.

WHO MAY ATTEND

The Programme is recommended for managers at all levels and from all functional areas.

A varied cross section of participant profiles adds new dimensions and perspectives to the discussions and experiential sessions.
